COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

As we settle into our new home downtown, engaging with our community is more important than ever! Throughout the rehearsal process, we ask that actors help to sell ads, put up signs and promote the exciting work we are doing!

PARENT VOLUNTEERS

Are you interested in getting involved in the production? Let us know! It makes our community stronger (and our productions even better) when parents and family members help with sets, props, costumes, front of house and more!

CAST CONTRACT

Attendance:

- Addams Family rehearsals and shows must take priority over other rehearsals/ after school activities. All rehearsal conflicts must be submitted along with auditions. Conflicts should be reserved for emergencies and urgent matters only. If I have a conflict, I am responsible for learning the material I missed. If I do not submit a conflict ahead of time and I miss rehearsal, it is not guaranteed that I will be in the scene/song rehearsed.
- There are no Tech Week conflicts and no exceptions to this rule. Since we add many elements (set pieces, lighting, etc.) during Tech, it can be a safety concern if actors are not present. Tech incorporates the work of many different designers and technicians and it makes their job difficult if the entire cast is not present.

Memorization:

- I understand that it is my responsibility to practice lines, music, staging and choreography at home.
- Each weekend, I will attend rehearsal prepared and off book (memorized) from the previous weekend's rehearsals. By Tech Week, I will have my show fully memorized.

Professionalism:

- I recognize that this show is a labor of love and combines the hard work of many designers, technicians, and creatives! I understand that all actors and roles are valued and appreciated in BRT's artistic community. Above all, it is my responsibility to show kindness and respect to fellow castmates and BRT professionals. We have a zero tolerance policy for any unkind behavior, including online/ social media.
